

Picture scavenger hunt

Divide your staff members into teams and send them out—armed with digital cameras—to look for a list of items that can be found within your community. (Plan ahead and ask various team members to volunteer to bring their personal cameras.) Instruct them to photograph any items from the list that they can find. Each item has a value between one and five points. After an hour of searching, ask the teams to return to the practice to tally up the points. The team with the highest score wins.

The rules

- Be safe and have fun!
- Teams may not split into smaller groups or use more than one vehicle.
- At least two team members must be in each picture for the points to count.
- Teams may only use one digital camera.
- Any questionable pictures will be left up to the jury (the other teams) for deliberation.
- No money must be spent to obtain these pictures.
- The hunt will last 60 minutes, with a 10-minute safety grace period. Any team pulled over for speeding will be disqualified.
- In case of a tie, representatives from each team will compete for the best of five in a game of rock, paper, and scissors.
